...AN... ABDUCTION

A Story of Hypnotism.

Many years ago I was boarding in a well known house at the lower end of Broadway, kept by a jolly, light eyed, light haired, fat German lady, the widow of a "professor," Mme. Steinberg. As for myself, I was a quiet, old fashioned teacher of languages, and the place suited me. Among my pupils was the daughter of a rich widow, living in Washington square, which was the height of fashionable aspiration in those days. My department was instruction in the German language, and in Ella Cameron I found a pupil so completely and naturally imbued with the mysticism deemed peculiar to the Germans and the orientals that I found she grasped the instinct of that grandly expressive language as an infant learning its mother tongue. There was German blood somewhere in the long pedigree of Ella's ancestors.

Ella Cameron had inherited sufficient of the natural Scotch intellectual force to give her balance without blunting the subtle sensibilities of her mind.

One day there came to our house a foreign gentleman to board. No one knew his nationality, and to this day I am ignorant of it. He spoke English fluently and idiomatically correct, but with such an accent as he might have learned by being educated abroad; yet he was not an Englishman, for he said so. His German was perfection, his French Parisian, his Italian and Spanish a marvel. As for his age, he might have been thirty or he might have been fifty.

Naturally enough, with our assimilating tastes, education and pursuits, and through the kind intervention of Mme. Steinberg, Paul Stolberg and I became soon acquainted and then intimate.

"Great men," he would say, "are but the embodiment of an abstraction and as purely accidental as anything within the meaning of the word."

These and similar eulogiums he would give utterance to, not in any dogmatic or self sufficient spirit, but simply as stating the result of his study and experience.

Most cultivated and educated persons I have met have possessed hobbies of some sort, and Stolberg's hobby was the collection of crystals. His collection, however, was certainly the finest I ever saw, containing specimens of quartz, spar and other minerals and even the diamond in various forms. They were arranged in his cabinet under glass and numbered several hundred. Besides these, he had in another case a collection of magnets, comprising about fifty, and also of all sizes. Such a curious concatenation of tastes surprised me, and I remarked upon it, asking why he had selected two such diverse objects for collection.

"Not so diverse as you think, my dear friend," said he, "for I at least think that where two powers, apparently different in form and character, produce the same results, if exercised in the same manner there must be consanguinity somewhere."

"The magnet attracts," said I, "and the crystal, excited by friction, will do the same, but so will a glass bottle or a stick of sealing wax."

He smiled and, going to his crystal cabinet, selected from it one of the larger ones. Then he said as he returned to my side, "Sit easily in your chair while I show you something else the crystal will do and mark your sensations." I took an easy position, resting my hands on the arms of the chair, and waited.

Seating himself directly in front of me, he raised the crystal with both hands, and at about a distance of six inches from my person drew it slowly, perpendicularly, before me, from my head to my feet. As he did so I noticed a sensation as of a light breeze blowing upon me. The operation was repeated, and this time I felt a pleasant drowsiness creep over me, the cool wind still blew upon me, and I seemed to see nothing but the crystal, which assumed a larger appearance and became luminous at the angles. A third pass, and it occurred to me that I would mention this luminous appearance, which was increasing, but on trying to do so I found I could not speak and move, and, with a dim fancy that I was rude to fall asleep under such circumstances I became insensible.

When I became conscious, the window was open and the cool October wind blowing upon me. My forehead was wet, and my chair had been wheeled in front of the window. Stolberg sat by me, and I observed that he looked paler than usual and anxious.

"What is the matter?" said I.

"Nothing," he replied. "I do not care to wait until you should come naturally out of your coma, so I used physical means to awaken you. What do you think of the power of the crystal now?"

I replied that I had never heard of it before and described my sensations to him, but he did not pay much attention, and his mind seemed distraught.

"But how is it about the magnet?"

said I. "You have not yet proved to me any identity between these two forces."

"One experiment of this sort is enough for an evening," he replied. "On another occasion I will convince you that the magnet possesses precisely the same power. But tell me—you have a pupil whom I should much like to meet—Miss Cameron."

I was surprised that he should have heard of her and said so.

"You mentioned her name when you were under the influence of the crystal," he replied.

"So, then," said I, "this power is allied to that of animal magnetism?"

"It produced a kindred result by a different means. But this Miss Cameron, as I judge from your remarks, must be a peculiar character—what I should call sublimated."

"You are right, though I had no idea of talking in my sleep or telling tales out of school. But really I would like you to see her and converse with her."

Stolberg expressed the pleasure it would give him to meet her, and I promised to make an arrangement that end when I gave her my lesson on the following day.

My description of my friend and my assurance of his scholarly attainments roused sufficient curiosity in my pupil to render her eager to see him. So an appointment was made, with the consent of her mother, for the following day, and, punctual to the hour, we entered Mrs. Cameron's drawing room.

The ladies appeared immediately after, and, presenting my friend, what was my surprise to see Miss Cameron suddenly pause, trembling violently, while her face became vividly pale. I stepped forward to support her, but Stolberg had already taken her hand, and as he gracefully expressed his gratification at meeting her she became instantly calm, and, seating herself, in a moment she was pleasantly engaged in conversation.

Somehow or other we drifted into the subject of hypnotism, and I mentioned the affair of the crystal. Ella was interested and begged that Mr. Stolberg would give her an opportunity of witnessing its effects. He agreed willingly, and a future occasion was promised when the experiment should be made on the young lady herself.

A few days later, on reaching our boarding house, I was informed by Mme. Steinberg that Mr. Stolberg had packed all his property, with orders to send it on board a packet which was to sail on the following day for Hamburg. A note to me, left by himself, informed me that he had received letters which required his immediate departure, but that he would not deprive Miss Cameron of her seance and would meet me at her mother's house in the evening at the hour which had been named.

At that time and place I found him, apparently making himself quite at home, and presently opening a small box which he had brought with him he drew from it the same crystal with which he had operated upon me.

Seating himself in front of her as she reclined easily in her armchair, he commenced the mysterious passes with his crystal. I watched her closely, and as he moved it slowly in front of her I could perceive that she gradually grew pale; then her eyelids dropped, and she was apparently in a sound sleep. Her mother called to her, touched her and even used some gentle violence to awaken her, but without the slightest apparent effect.

Pointing the crystal at her Stolberg drew silently backward toward the door, when, to our astonishment, the sleeping figure rose, or rather glided after him out of the door, into the hall, down the stairs, and as he opened the front door Stolberg called to Mrs. Cameron, who stood with me at the head of the stairs watching the results of this wonderful influence:

"You see, madam, she would follow me anywhere," and, as though to prove it, she passed out of the door, which Stolberg shut, and, to my horror, I heard him lock it after him.

I flew down the two flights of stairs into the basement, my brain turning mad, it seemed to me, and reached the sidewalk by the lower door just in time to see a carriage turning at full speed the next corner.

Returning to Mrs. Cameron I found her in a swoon, out of which, as she awakened to sensibility, she passed into convulsions and at midnight was a corpse. Meanwhile the police had been informed, messages sent in all directions, but of Stolberg or his unhappy victim I have never heard since.

A Real Cute Crab.

Eugene Blackford, at one time fish commissioner of New York, was standing in the door of his office in Fulton market one day when a literary woman came up to him and said: "Mr. Blackford, I am gathering material for an article on crabs. Do you think those little crustaceans have the faculty of reasoning?"

"Well, madam," replied Mr. Blackford, "I have never given the subject a thought, but I have known crabs to do some remarkable things. Last summer I was fishing for flounders in Jamaica bay. The water was shallow, and I could easily see the bottom. A crab sidled up to my bait, picked up the hook with one claw, took off the bait with the other, ate it, and then climbed up the line and over hand, tumbled into the boat and went nosing around looking for the bait box, if that isn't reason, it certainly is a very high degree of instinct."—New York Times.

Animals and Earthquakes.

Many birds show their uneasiness before an earthquake by hiding their heads under their wings and otherwise behaving in an unusual manner. At the time of the Calabrian shock the little fishlike eels (cirricelli), which usually hide deep in the wet sand, came to the top and were caught in great multitudes. In South America certain quadrupeds, such as dogs, cats and jerboas, are believed by the people to give warning of coming danger by their restlessness. Sometimes immense flocks of sea birds fly inland before an earthquake, as if alarmed by some suboceanic disturbance. The only explanation offered of this apparent prescience is that some animals are sensitive to the small tremors which precede nearly all earthquake shocks.

DR. FRANCIS M. HALL DEAD

THE END OF A LONG AND HONOR-
ABLE CAREER.

PRACTICING PHYSICIAN FIFTY YEARS.

Passed Peacefully Away "Like One Who Wraps the Drapery of His Couch
About Him and Lies Down
to Pleasant Dreams."

Never was the ideal of the closing sentences of Thanatopsis mor-
perfectly realized than in the death of Dr. F. M. Hall. Without fear, without pain, without one struggle or tremor, his great spirit took its flight; as if tired out at the end of a long life of labor for his fellow men, he laid down to rest, to sleep.
Death had touched his eyelids,
caught away his feeble breath and
sealed the chambers of his heart.

Dr. Francis Malachi Hall was born in South Carolina in 1823 and
had just passed his seventy-ninth anniversary Saturday last. He was left an orphan at an early age
and moved with relatives to Alabama where he grew to manhood
and received his literary education.
Having selected medicine as a choice of professions, he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. He went at once to New Orleans and began the practice of medicine about the time of the breaking out of an epidemic of cholera. Into the fight against this dread malady he plunged with all his energy and ability, and worked without rest or thought of self until stricken with the disease himself. Recovering his health he moved to Caddo parish, La., where
on January 16, 1849, he was married to Miss Margaret Barton.
Subsequently he took a post-graduate course at Bellevue Hospital Medical college of New York.

Dr. Hall moved with his family to Texas in 1852, settling at old Port Sullivan on the Brazos river.
He moved to Bryan in February, 1869, residing here continuously until his death. Six children were born to him and his good wife, only three of whom survive and
were present at his death: Mrs. W.
H. Webb, Miss Lillie Hall and Mr.
Lem B. Hall, all residents of this city.

During the Civil War, Dr. Hall served as a surgeon in the Confederate army and was stationed at Galveston. There he went through a terrible epidemic of yellow fever and had the disease himself. His wife died of yellow fever in 1873
during the epidemic in Bryan.

Dr. Hall was married to Miss Ella Gillespie in 1875 and she died in 1886, leaving no children. He married Mrs. Ada O. Polk in 1890, and his devoted wife survives him
with her children, Mrs. Phil Clarke
and Miss Ada Lee Polk, to whom he proved in every sense a kind
and indulgent father, and was in turn the recipient of their constant attention and affection.

Dr. Hall practiced medicine for half a century with marked success and was beloved and depended upon as few men are. He was ever
of a genial disposition with a pleasant word for all, and his presence

the sick room seemed at once to ispeal half the horrors that crowd upon the imagination. He was devoted to his profession and gave up only when too feeble to answer calls—less than a year ago
his death is deplored by all the citizens of Bryan who unite as one man in an expression of sympathy with the members of the family.

Dr. Hall was laid to rest in the presence of a large assemblage at the city cemetery yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. E. L.
Shetle of the Methodist church conducted the service.

A gang of workmen mending the
street in front of an editor's house,
for greater safety, put their dinner pails inside the yard. The littleones found them and went for the pie, leaving the bread, bacon and potatoes. They had struck a square meal for once.

The plan of Senator Hoar to insulate anarchists is excellent. Let's put them on some earthquake infested isle and supply them with dynamite. There is nothing like environment to make men contented and happy.

The crying need of our foreign trade interests is commercial, technical education, especially in foreign languages. Our commercial travelers are mentally equal to any in the world, but what will a man's mind avail him if he cannot use his tongue in the language of the country. We suffer at every foreign mart by comparison with polyglot Germans and Englishmen who re-
able to talk to people in their own language while our consuls and
agents must depend on pantomime.

horse while at a party.

Several entertainments have been enjoyed by our young people during the holidays, for which the youngsters are very grateful.

Miss Laura Presnal is at home from Belton, spending the holidays.

A party of young people from this community visited the Christmas tree at Edge and report that they saw Santa Claus and had a good time.

"Grandma" Presnal has been quite sick recently.

Elbert Robinson and lady and John McKinney of Marlin spent Xmas with J. A. D. Robinson, Esq.

Miss Bessie Robinson, one of our charming little misses, spent last week with Dr. Drummond's family.

Our youths are always made to rejoice by the hospitalities of some good people of our vicinity, and last Wednesday night, the 1st of the new year, the homes of Mrs. Wiley Kelly and Mr. J. J. Parker were open to the pleasure seekers. All the young people were there, expressing their thoughts in the old-time style.

George Edge made a flying trip over to see Guy Harris today.

Mrs. J. T. Sample visited Mrs.
Presnal last week.

One of our young men has the sore eyes, and we are uneasy for fear he has been making goo-goo eyes at somebody else's girl.

Harris school was opened again Monday, December 30, after a vacation of five weeks.

The health of the community is not good, as every one has the smallpox or is scared for fear they will take it.

Eldest Daughter of the President Presented to Washington Society.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, the eldest daughter of President Roosevelt, was formally presented to Washington society last night at a ball given in her honor at the White House. About 500 guests in all were present. Miss Roosevelt is the first White House debutante since 1873, when Miss Nellie Grant was presented to society at a ball which was the gayest social event of the decade.

The presentations were made in the Blue Parlor, Mrs. Roosevelt introducing her daughter. The latter wore white chiffon with white roses and the jewels which her father gave her Christmas. Mrs. Roosevelt wore pure white, with white lace and trimmed with il-lac orchids. Miss Roosevelt was the recipient of many floral pieces of beautiful design, sent to her in honor of her "coming out" day. The present enjoyed the occasion heartily, and mingled freely among the young folks.

The dancing, which began shortly after 10 o'clock, and included a programme of 20 numbers, was held in the large East Room, music being furnished by the Marine band and the Artillery Corps band from Washington barracks during the ball. Buffet luncheon was served in the banquet room.

WOMEN SHOULD PROPOSE.

Dr. Kloss Believes That the Old Order of Courtship Should Be Reversed.

St. Louis, Jan. 4.—Dr. Charles L.
Kloss, pastor of the First Congregational church at Webster Grove, has caused a sensation by suggesting that women should propose marriage.

There are nearly 300 members of his congregation and last year there were only about a dozen marriages among the members. Dr. Kloss is disposed to blame the women. He says they are too timid, and that there is no reason why they should not do the proposing themselves.

"The idea seems to have always been that women are dependent upon the men," Dr. Kloss says. "There is no reason why this opinion should not be reversed. Let them become men's economic equals and then they can do the proposing themselves, instead of waiting for the men to come along and ask them to become their wives."

Denver after Thugs.

Denver, Jan. 4.—Fully 2000 citizens of Denver held a mass meeting here for the purpose of affecting an organization to aid in ridding the city of the thugs who have maintained a reign of terror for two years past. The immediate cause of the meeting was the murder of Harold Friedberg and the outraging of his 16-year-old sister on the night of December 31.

DESPERADO CAPTURED.

Conductor Takes Him in With the Assistance of Passengers.

Vicksburg, Miss., Jan. 4.—Joe Gibbs, said to be a western desperado, was captured Wednesday night while engaged in what is thought to have been an attempt to hold up and rob the westbound mail and express train on the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific railroad.

Gibbs and two companions boarded the train at Eldorado, a small station between Delhi and Rayville, La. Passing through the smoker Gibbs fired a number of shots from a Winchester through the car windows, effectually terrorizing the passengers. From the smoker he entered the first-class coach and started the same performance. The desperado then returned to the combination mail and express car and demanded of Messenger Pepper to open the door. Upon the messenger's refusal Gibbs attempted to batter the door down. While engaged in this Conductor Frank Sanders secured a pistol from a passenger, and getting the drop on the desperado disarmed him and with the assistance of two passengers bound him hand and foot.
At Rayville Gibbs was turned over to local officers.

Wife Sacrifices Her Life.

Waco, Tex., Jan. 4.—Mrs. Kate Mason, wife of John Mason, was burned to death at the family residence. The house caught fire, and Mrs. Mason, fearing her husband, who is partly paralyzed, would perish, made a heroic effort to quench the flames, and her clothing taking fire she was roasted, dying in a short time in awful agony. Students of Baylor university rescued Mr. Mason, who has not walked for years, but moves about in a chair on wheels. Help arrived too late to save Mrs. Mason. The husband is 76 and Mrs. Mason was 72 years old. They came here from Germantown, Pa.

Died a Rear Admiral.

Boston, Jan. 4.—Information from Washington shows that Captain Richard J. Leary, United States navy, who died at Chelsea recently, died a rear admiral without being conscious of the fact. It was a promotion which he had looked for, and it is said to have been the one thing which troubled him in his last moments. The appointment was made the day before he died, but it was only when his brother-in-law, Dr. Fairfax Irwin, returned from his funeral at Annapolis to Chelsea, that the appointment was found.

Lawyer Concert Improving.

New York, Jan. 6.—Frederick R.
Coudert, the prominent lawyer, is improving in health. His illness, which was regarded as serious, resembled nervous prostration. It is said to have been caused by the illness of his daughter.

PLEADED GUILTY.

Four Kentuckians Pay for Interfering in a City Election.

Louisville, Jan. 6.—In the Federal court here Robert Lack, H. H. Mullen and J. J. O'Neill pleaded guilty to interfering with citizens in their rights of suffrage at the election held in this city four years ago. They were sentenced to three months in jail and O'Neill was fined $2,500, while Lack and Mullen were fined $2,000 each. They will also be compelled to pay one-third of the cost of trial.

Six Skeletons Dug Up.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Jan. 6.—While
the county convict gang was excavating a trench in the rear of the courthouse six human skulls were unearthed, together with the remnants of six skeletons. The bones had been buried for many years, as they easily crumbled when touched.

Citizens who have lived here for over 50 years state they never heard of a cemetery in that vicinity. The bones were unearthed at a depth of about five feet, and indicate that the bodies had been buried on top of each other. The skulls indicated plainly that they belonged to white men.

Declares Lights Were Burning.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—The French
bark Max, Captain Benoist, which was in collision with and sank the steamer Walla Walla, causing the loss of about 40 lives, and which was towed to this port, was badly damaged in the accident. Her captain had little to say regarding the disaster except that his vessel was closely following the rules
when a steamer came under the bows of his bark. He declared that the lights of the Max were properly burning and displayed. The men of the Walla Walla claim differently.

Revolutionists Aboard Steamer.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Jan.
6.—Shortly before midnight Sunday night a steamer, believed to be the Venezuelan revolutionary steamer Libertador, passed several times before this port, signalling to the people ashore. Answering signals appeared to have been received from the shore,
as it is asserted the members of the revolutionary expeditions, which had assembled on this island embarked on board the Libertador and should now be landed on Venezuelan coast near Ve-lade Coro.

DECISION UPHOLD.

Carter's Alleged Accomplish Must Be Tried in New York.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The United States supreme court affirmed the decision of the United States circuit court for the Southern district of New York in the case of Benj. Green, W. M. Gayner, Edward H. Gayner and John F.
Gayner. Green and Gayners are charged with being in complicity with Captain O. M. Carter, now serving a term in the United States prison at Leavenworth, Kas., on charge of defrauding the government of a large sum of money, while superintending the public works at Savannah, Ga. Green and the Gayners have sought by habeas corpus proceedings in New York to avoid being sent to Georgia for trial.
New York court refused to grant the writ and opinion rendered confirms that verdict.

No Release for Carter.

States supreme court refused to interfere in the case of Captain Oberlin M.
Carter. The decision was rendered in proceedings instituted by Captain Carter for the purpose of securing a writ of habeas corpus that would release
him from prison at Leavenworth, Kas.

TEMPERANCE ADVANCING.

John G. Wooley Returns from a Seven Months' Tour Over the World.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—That the world
in general is advancing toward temperance is the belief of John G. Wooley, the prohibition candidate for president and leader, who has just returned from a seven months' trip around the globe. His trip was taken for the purpose of studying the condition of the liquor traffic in foreign lands.

On his long trips Mr. Wooley addressed over 90 temperance meetings, speaking against rum in Australia,
whiskey in Scotland, and kava in Honolulu. The islands of the South seas were visited by Mr. Wooley in his study of social conditions included Hawaii, Samoa, Tutuila, New Zealand and Australia. On his return trip he visited Ceylon, France, England, Scotland and Wales.

Mr. Wooley says that "among all the greater nations, I feel sure that America is at present the farthest advanced in the struggle for prohibition."

ABLE CAREER.

PRACTICING PHYSICIAN FIFTY YEARS.

Wraps the Drapery of His Couch

Never was the ideal of the closing sentences of Thanatopsis mor-
of Dr. F. M. Hall. Without fear,
men, he laid down to rest, to sleep.
Death had touched his eyelids,
sealed the chambers of his heart.

Dr. Francis Malachi Hall was
born in South Carolina in 1823 and
anniversary Saturday last. He
and moved with relatives to Ala-
and received his literary education.
from the University of Pennsylvania
once to New Orleans and began the
moved to Caddo parish, La., where
on January 16, 1849, he was married to Miss Margaret Barton.
Subsequently he took a post-graduate course at Bellevue Hospital Medical college of New York.

to Texas in 1852, settling at old
Port Sullivan on the Brazos river.
He moved to Bryan in February,
until his death. Six children were
born to him and his good wife,
only three of whom survive and
were present at his death: Mrs. W.
H. Webb, Miss Lillie Hall and Mr.
city.

served as a surgeon in the Confederate army and was stationed at
during the epidemic in Bryan.

Dr. Hall was married to Miss
in 1886, leaving no children. He
married Mrs. Ada O. Polk in 1890,
and his devoted wife survives him
and Miss Ada Lee Polk, to whom
he proved in every sense a kind
attention and affection.

Dr. Hall practiced medicine for
upon as few men are. He was ever
of a genial disposition with a pleas-

isipal half the terrors that crowd
up only when too feeble to answer calls—less than a year ago.
with the members of the family.

Dr. Hall was laid to rest in the
noon at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. E. L.
Shettle of the Methodist church
conducted the service.

for greater safety, put their dinner
pie, leaving the bread, bacon and
potatoes. They had struck a square meal for once.

tented and happy.

The crying need of our foreign
trade interests is commercial, tech-
in the world, but what a man's
try. We suffer at every foreign
mart by comparison with polyglot
agents must depend on pantomime.

court here Robert Lock, H. H. Mullen
and J. J. O'Neill pleaded guilty to in-
terfering with citizens in their rights
of suffrage at the election held in this
city four years ago. They were sen-
O'Neill was fined $2,500, while Lock and Mullen were fined $2,000 each. They
of the cost of trial.

Six Skeletons Dug Up.

the county convict gang was excavat-
house six human skulls were un-
crumbled when touched.

that they belonged to white men.

Declares Lights Were Burning.

port, was badly damaged in the ac-
vessel was closely following the rules
when a steamer came under the bows
Walla Walla claim differently.

Revolutionists Aboard Steamer.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Jan.
6.—Shortly before midnight Sunday
night a steamer, believed to be the Venezuelan revolutionary steamer Lib-
be landed on Venezuelan coast near Ve-lade Coro.

Want Vanection for Divorce.

London, Jan. 6.—The Prince of Manaco has sent a special messenger to Rome with a request for a special interview with the pope on the subject of obtaining a divorce from the princess, the daughter of Michael Heine, the New Orleans banker.

Receiver for Rubber Company.

New York, Jan. 6.—The order of Judge LaCombe appointing William W. Ladd, Jr., temporary receiver of the Crude Rubber company, under bond of $50,000, has been filed in the office of the clerk of the United States circuit court.

Tried in New York.

States supreme court affirmed the decision of the United States circuit court
for the Southern district of New York
in the case of Benj. Green, W. M. Gay-
ner, Edward H. Gayner and John F.
Gayner. Green and Gayners are charged with being in complicity with Cap-
worth, Kas., on charge of defraud-

that verdict.

No Release for Carter.

States supreme court refused to interfere in the case of Captain Oberlin M.
Carter. The decision was rendered in
ter for the purpose of securing a writ
him from prison at Leavenworth, Kas.

John G. Wooley Returns from a Seven
Months' Tour Over the World.

in general is advancing toward temperance is the belief of John G. Woo-
ley, the prohibition candidate for
for the purpose of studying the condi-
lands.

On his long trips Mr. Wooley addressed over 90 temperance meetings,
speaking against rum in Australia,
whiskey in Scotland, and kava in Honolulu. The islands of the South
Hawaii, Samoa, Tutulu, New Zealand
and Australia. On his return trip he
land and Wales.

Mr. Wooley says that "among all the
ica is at present the farthest advanced in the struggle for prohibition."

The telephone wires have been cut between Mount Calm and Watt, Tex., by unknown parties.

BRAIN-FOOD NONSENSE.
Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part.
Yet, however good your food may be its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Wilson-Jenkins Drug Co.'s store. Get Green's Special Almanac.

One Man Killed, Two Badly Injured and Race Horses Killed.
Kellthville, La., Jan. 2.—One life was lost, two persons were seriously injured and part of a car of valuable race horses en route from the winter meeting at New Orleans were destroyed in a disastrous collision between a Texas and Pacific fast freight No. 67 and a Houston East and West Texas freight on a siding here at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. Besides the fatality noted the direct result of the collision was the derailing of the Houston East and West Texas locomotive and 12 cars which later caught fire and burned to the trucks.
W. J. Daniels of Houston, fireman on the Houston East and West Texas train, was caught under the wreck and either crushed or burned to death.
A negro named Bob Edwards, who was firing on the engine, jumped from the cab a few seconds before the trains came together. One of his legs was broken, while he also sustained severe internal injuries.
The engineer of the Houston East and West Texas train disappeared immediately after the accident.
The horses in the Texas and Pacific wreck belonged to J. W. Fuller of Wills Point, Tex., and consisted of George Arnold, the winner of the Christmas handicap; Queen Esther, Kate Ayre and Free State. The only one killed was George Arnold, for whom $20,000 was refused and who was insured for $9000. The others were hurt, but escaped to the woods. James Kane, a stable attendant, was killed.
